

For Professor Titania, being a psychic reader is all about community. Her first deck was given to her by her partner. She studied books on the tarot, but got more knowledge from the girlfriend who gave her the deck, as well as many elders she knew in the local pagan community. Though now an experienced reader, Titania continues to gain insight into the cards and her intuitive abilities from the communities she is involved in: the readers she works with at fairs and the local metaphysical store Sacred Sage, an online community called Itinerant Tarot, even from the clients who come to her for readings.

“Tarot is such an intense source of self-knowledge and as a reader I'm not going to tell you anything that you didn't know on some level. It's my job as a reader to use the cards to help you reach that knowledge and gain a better understanding of yourself and your circumstances.”

In her tarot sessions, Titania does her best to explain the messages the cards are giving to her clients. “Please be honest with me,” she says. “If you feel that I'm way off in the wrong field I want to know so that I can try to clarify things for you and for myself. I learn as much reading for people as they learn from me and so the back and forth is incredibly important for a good reading.”

While Titania only offers tarot sessions at indoor events, she also offers other services outside of the fairs. “I also offer a service that I call a fire mediation that consists of an herbal fire fueled with candles and essential oils. I use both the herbs and the cards to direct the intent of the fire to whatever my client needs, be that a healing mediation, one for peace of mind or romance. I can also do blessings for children and new homes. In all cases I send the ashes of the fire mixed with sea salt home with the client. This is good for laying down circles of protection around homes or just in general use in your regular practice.”

Titania is excited to be able to offer her services at Michigan Psychic Fair events. “All the clients I have worked with have been open and communicative. And, really, I can't ask much more of folks in a reading.”
